MURPHY IB STUDENTS

ACCEPTED ANYWHERE

When noted Mobile architect Nick Holmes Jr. spearheaded the creation of the Edith Murphy Foundation in 2000, he envisioned hard working students like Kyle Johnson, who has designs on becoming an architect himself. "With the advanced education I received in the IB program, I have been accepted to Tulane, Georgia Tech and Auburn," reports Kyle.

Founded by graduates of Murphy High School, the mission of the Edith Murphy Foundation is to facilitate a true academic environment to simultaneously challenge and support the efforts of students who have the capacity and commitment to learn and excel, and to generally support the needs of the International Baccalaureate Program.
